And what are all these people to be dragged into all this litigation for? Because there has been a law suit between ting: parties of wealth and influence about a water right, and both sides didn't win it. At the present time there is as little trouble and litigation about water rights, as before the Legislature upon the subject of about any other species of property of equal irrigation, will be read with interest, as this value. Most of the rights claimed are is the most important question now before established by possession for the period of $50 to second, third horse to save stake; with the statute of limitations; and to foist upon ner of Nos. 4 or 13 penalized 5 pounds; if both, established by possession for the period of the people of the State, and by criticism our people all of this litigation would be and proper discussion of measures proposed little better than malicious. But let us pass on to the third bill, com-monly called the "District bill." It is a very lengthy bill, and it will be sufficient to discuss a few of the more important feat-

It provides for the division of the State into water districts, and the election of three Water Commissioners in each, who shall draw salaries and appoint a Secretary and employ engineers and attorneys, Su perintendents and assistants, all of whom draw salaries, and who are to do a great many things and require a great many hings; for instance: "To inspect the channels and canal within their district at least once a year, and report to the State Engineer the condition of such channels and canals and water supply," etc.

"To require all divertors and users of water within the district to make to them an annual accounting of the amount of al waters diverted and used by them and the number of acres irrigated thereby. "To establish upon all the streams " " But the bill also provides for dividing these water districts up into irrigation di tricts, each of which is to have a board o trustees, a secretary, engineers, attorneys water overseers, all of whom, of course must live." These trustees have powe o "look after the water," to purchase onstruct ditches, canals, etc., and after th proper authority is granted by vote of the district, to issue and sell bonds to pay for such works. The trustees and comm ers have power to adopt rules and regula ions concerning the reception, use, waste listribution and general management o water, and the bill provides that any viola tion of such rules and regulations shall be punished as a misdemeanor. Is anything proposed by this bill which will not, as soon as required, be accomplished by private enterprise and capital a far less expense? Already a very larg share of the waters of the State are d verted and appropriated. Money is seek-ing investment at low rates of interest. If ere are waters subject to diversion, which can be profitably diverted, is not private enterprise sufficient for the emergency Cannot the same end be accomp without the double array of armies of officers and attorneys of water districts and irrigation districts? Do not all such ente prises, when carried on by the public prove far more expensive than when con structed by private enterprise? It is est works for irrigation, under favor

BURGLARY YESTERDAY MORNING .- The residence of B. H. Lovell, on Nineteenth street, between M and N, was burglarized yesterday morning and robbed of some ewelry and a small sum of money. The burglar, judging from the disarranged ap pearance of the premises afterwards, and the grease dropped from the candle he used, had examined the house thoroughly previously opening the front and back doors to secure hasty exit in case it became necessary to absent himself quickly. He did not finish his work completely, how ever, for Mr. Covell's daughter was aroused about 4 A. M., in consequence of her little brother awaking, and she saw a man in the room. This person she at first glance took to be her father, from the general ap pearance; but she quickly discovered her mistake, and, pretending not to hav seen the intruder, quieted her brother, and gave the fellow a chance to leave th rtment, when she immediately alarmed Library, including $375 for rent...

Waiting for the End. NEW YORK, April 6th.—The following bulletin was issued at 6:30 A. M.: General Grant had an undisturbed and refresh-General Grant had an undisturbed and relies ing sleep of seven and a half hours. His pulse is 80 and full, his temperature normal. He has had no pain during the night, and coughed very little. He is inclined to be cheerful.

SHRADY, M. D. THE GENERAL'S PHYSICIANS—SAD CHANGE nomination of Corcoran was sent to the IN THE PATIENT.

New York, April 6th.—Hamilton Fish said this morning: "General Grant's physicians are men of high rank in their profession, and deserving of every confidence. The General's family has implicit faith in them, and the public may believe that everything that science can do for the patient has and will be done. Barker was the General's regular physician, and Douglass is a noted specialist in throat diseases.' "How does the General appear?" was asked. "Greatly changed. He is sadly emuciated, and his face is deeply wrinkled with lines either of constant anxiety or pain. The lower part of his face is swollen by the disease, but in consequence of the waste of flesh it is not noted as much at a full front view as when one sees him walking from room to room in his restless way. What do the physicians say in regard to the probabilities of the General's death? "They think his death will be very sud-den. It will be caused by suffocation, or by the disease invading the artery of the neck, or from a failure of the heart through weakness. His family, as well as himself are now waiting for the end, which must surely come. The physicians are fighting brayely to defer the death of the patient, not to prevent it.

A QUIET AFTERNOON. NEW YORK, April 6th-6:30 P. M.-The following bulletin has just been issued: The afternoon has been a very quiet one for General Grant. He has been free from pain, and dozed most of the time in a chair. He has taken nourishment regularly and weil. Pulse, ken nourismment reg., with slight fluctuation.
